IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the New London Northern railroad, its rolling stock and equipment, was leased to the Central Vermont railroad. By the terms of the lease the New London Northern was to receive annual payments of ten per cent. on the capital stock and bonds for a period of twenty years. The same week an official investigation into the causes leading to the burning of the steamer City of New London was started at the custom house in New London.

Extracts from the files of The Bulletin of November, 1871, are as follows: The search for Mr. Norton's body—the river was dragged on Sunday from Walden's Island in Allyn's Point, without success. Julius Webb, manager of the transportation company, has telegraphed the coast wrecking company for an experienced diver, and the search will be continued today. In the meantime the brothers and Mr. Norton have offered a reward of $1,000 for the recovery of his body, which will tend to stimulate the so far unfruitful search.

Alexander Montgomery convicted of the murder of William H. Coley, will be sentenced on the re-opening of the court next week.

On account of a misplaced switch the freight engine 1212, of the New London Northern railroad, and two cars loaded with wood, left the track just below the West Side bridge Saturday afternoon. The engine ploughed up the dirt, and the cars were prevented from moving back by a small schooner by the new bulk head recently re-built by the railroad company.

Tuesday, Nov. 28, 1871—The Shore Line railroad company has recently attached the electric brake to its through express. Its power is derived from a battery situated in each car, the controlling apparatus being in the baggage car. It is only applied in cases of sudden and imperative necessity, and does not supplant the brakeman in the ordinary working and checking of the trains.

Thomas Flynn of Greenfield, who is at present suffering under two afflictions, having a cold and a fever, attempted to crush both Sunday night by sitting down on them, but the neighbors are of the opinion that it was a failure, as Mr. Flynn was found at an early hour yesterday morning sitting on his own day step in a state of abject misery and gloom. P. Sullivan's horse ran away and dislocated a wagon on Thames street yesterday and Rawson's team wrecked a dray, which was about all we had to move it lively yesterday.

Wednesday, Nov. 29, 1871—R. McWhirr is the first to introduce a steam bakery in Norwich and his new building on Franklin street is admirably fitted for the purpose for which it is intended. The steam power, baking apparatus, etc., are situated on the second floor, where a six horse power engine is situated. A large cylindrical pile of malt-rye built from the cellar and measuring 21 feet in circumference contains the oven. The oven is the largest in the state, and in its operation, together with the remainder of the bakery arrangements is a curiosity which Mr. McWhirr invites his friends to inspect on Friday next.

In all things which go to make Thanksgiving a substantial reality prices are very much lower this season than last. Poultry has had an average decline of eight cents a pound turkeys now selling at from 18 to 20 cents, chickens, 16 to 18, geese, 14, and ducks, 20 cents. Beef now sell for 12.

Thursday, Nov. 30, 1871—The New London Northern railroad its rolling stock, equipments, etc., have been leased to the Vermont Central Railroad company for a period of 22 years, dating from tomorrow, when the latter will assume control. The terms are the annual payment of ten per cent. on the capital stock, including the bonds, of the company, and the return of the railroad in good condition at the expiration of this term. The headquarters of the road will probably be at St. Albans, but the company proposes to build shops and round houses at New London.

The funeral services of the late C. B. Rogers, one of the victims of the recent steamboat disaster, were held yesterday. The relatives and intimate friends of the family met at his former home at 11 Clock, where brief services were conducted by Rev. Drs. Bond and Arms and the Rev. Mr. Merriman. The coffin followed by a long procession, in which was a large number of the employees of C. B. Rogers & Company, was carried to the Yantic cemetery, where Rev. Dr. Arms officiated.

E. G. Short & Co. have received the contract for furnishing the Third regiment uniforms.

The official investigation of the causes leading to the burning of the steamer City of New London was begun at the custom house at New London Wednesday morning.

In accordance with their annual custom the Bulletin people propose to eat their Thanksgiving turkey at leisure and consequently no paper will be issued tomorrow morning.

Saturday, Dec. 2, 1871. The horse railroad company is importing hay from New York, the cost of it delivered here being considerably less than local prices. The cold snap which we are enjoying is said by the oldest and most veracious inhabitants to be without precedent at this season of the year, for a quarter of a century at least. A year ago on Thanksgiving the air was mild and springlike, flowers in many places growing in the open air. Thursday morning the thermometer was four degrees above zero (the Thames river is partly frozen over near Montville).

David Nason and family from White Rock moved to the Edwards farm, close to Stonington borough, Thursday.

LEDYARD

Prof. Roy E. Jones, poultry specialist of Storrs college, came to Ledyard Wednesday afternoon and organized a poultry club. The meeting was held in the vestry of the Congregational church. There was a fair sized attendance. Prof. Jones' talk was very interesting and helpful. A club was formed and Andrew Avery was elected president and Ray D. Holdridge secretary. It is the desire of the club that many more may join. There is no obligation and nothing to pay to become a club member. It is for the interest of anyone who raises poultry to join. The meetings will be held monthly and Prof. Jones will attend each meeting and give helpful suggestions. Either gentleman, Avery or Holdridge, will furnish all instructions to would-be members.

Carl Holdridge was the leader of the Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday evening.

A roast beef and roast pork supper was held at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Allyn Wednesday evening. A large number was present and the receipts were over $80. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the church.
